

Why professional parents tend to choose reputed medium size schools?

The most difficult thing for the parents is to find out the perfect school for their children. Some parents believe that bigger schools are giving great education. Some feel that smaller schools cannot provide all facilities that the students expect. Some prefer medium sized schools. In these circumstance parents are confused about which type of schools to choose for their children.

Smaller or medium size schools are better than bigger schools, as viewed by many parents. In medium or smaller schools, it is easier to maintain discipline and the students are better-behaved. So the classes run more smoothly, whereas bigger schools have too many students, in each class and hence teachers cannot focus on each student. Students tend to do better in smaller schools since they can get individual attention and better interaction with the teachers.

- Globally reputed schools are medium sized schools with about 1000 students.
- Students / Teacher ratio is around 30:1
- Students feel secure and expressive in medium size schools
- Students feel sidelined, ignored, unnoticed the or forgotten amidst a huge number of students in large schools.
- Reputed medium size schools are like a family.
- The parents in medium size schools will know each other and they know the children also
- Parents involvement will be greater
- Children will have good relationship with their teachers and with each other both inside and outside classroom.
- Good peer relationship is maintained.
- Better opportunities for leadership training extracurricular participation and exposure to evens inside and outside schools.